AUGUST 2025

Stewardship that Aspires!

It is August which means that MCC's annual stewardship appeal is right around the corner. Next month we'll begin talking "time, talent, and treasure," and reflecting on the dollars and cents of being church. Throughout August, our committees will assemble budgets that reflect the resources they anticipate needing for the year ahead. Those budgets will be submitted to our Stewardship and Finance Committee for review, and inform our stewardship goals for the upcoming year.

At the July board meeting it was suggested that committees consider creating two budgets. One that reflects their actual needs and costs, and a second that is more aspirational expressing what could be possible if those resources were available. This strikes me as not only a great fiscal exercise, but a great spiritual exercise for all of us as we consider our own stewardship commitment for the year ahead.

What might be possible...if...?!

To aspire means to strive for, to seek eagerly after, to reach and attain. Etymologically, aspire comes from the Latin word meaning "to breathe." The root, spirare, is the same root for the word "spirit" or "breath of God". Thus, in a spiritual sense, to aspire means to strive for or seek after the things of the Spirit. We reach for and endeavor to attain that which God desires for us.

An aspirational budget reaches and seeks. It strives for what's possible instead of settling for what already is. An aspirational budget responsibly wonders, "What if?" It gives permission to dream a little and get excited about the possibilities and potential that the Spirit has in store. What causes could we support if...? What upgrades to our facilities could we make if...? How might we elevate our experience of worship if...? What technology might help us reach more people if....? What could we do to support our young families or nurture growing leaders if...?

This month you are encouraged to wonder, "What if?" Give yourself permission to dream a little and reflect on what a spiritually aspirational stewardship might look like for you and your household. After all, an aspirational budget will only remain a hypothetical "What if?" unless it is enlivened by an aspirational congregation. You don't make it 189 years as a congregation without a little aspiration! It will take all of us to breathe life into the dollars and cents of being church as we reach and seek after the Spirit together.

What if, MCC?

I can't wait to find out!

STEWARSHIP REPORT

Guess, logic, intuition, common sense, these terms all involve assumptions. However, after the facts are known, such reasoning can be akin to stating  $1+1=3$ . Proverbs Chapter 18, verse 2 indicates that "A fool does not delight in understanding, but only in airing his own opinion." This is illustrated by airplane passengers' concerns when the pilot announced an engine failure, resulting in an increased flight time. Not too much later the pilot revealed a second engine went down, again reducing the aircraft's speed. Then, when the pilot proclaimed both a third engine was lost and a further speed reduction, one of the passengers loudly proclaimed, "If that last engine fails, we'll be up here all night."

So, how does this impact Stewardship? The budget for FY 2026 is now being prepared and, while economists have predicted inflation will remain steady during the new year, the committee chairs are left to guess what new needs their committee will face and, equally important, the church's income. A crucial fact here is how much pledged support the church can expect. Pledges serve a dual purpose; they cause each of us to consider what our financial commitment to the MCC will be and they also help the planners create a realistic budget. Budgets and pledges are an indicator of our desires but unexpected events can seriously modify both. Just like MCC's budget, pledges can be changed in the face of new facts. However, without a logical starting place neither committee chairs nor church members can develop a meaningful plan. This being so, all of us are asked to make our best guess on our financial support for MCC in 2026 and pledge this on Commitment Sunday, October 5.
